

FOREIGN POLICY

Dr. DHAWALE J. S.

Department o political science

Arts & Science College Shivajinagar, Gadhi

Foreign Policy and Foreign Affairs

- What is foreign policy?
- what is the difference between isolationism and internationalism?
- How does the Department of State function?
- How do the Department of Defense and the military department's function?

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENTS

The Department of Army

The army is the largest and the oldest of the armed services.

The army consists of standing troops, or the Regular Army, and its reserve units – the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

The Department of the Navy

The navy's major responsibilities are for sea warfare and defense.

The U.S. Marine Corps, a combat – ready land force, are under the auspices of navy command.

ISOLATIONISM TO INTERNATIONALISM

- For more than 150 years, the American people were chiefly interested in domestic affairs, or what was happening at home.
- Foreign affairs, or the nation's relationships with other countries, were of little or no concern.

ISOLATIONISM

- Isolationism, the purposeful refusal to become generally involved in the affairs of the rest of the world, was American policy during this time.
- Since world war II, however, US. Policy has featured a broadening of American involvement in global affairs.