Research Methodology

The study is best entirely on secondary data. The data collected from the Research journals magazines Books, Newspaper and Internet.

Concept of Child Development

Child development refers to the process through which human beings typically grow and mature from infancy through adulthood. There are different stages of child development. The different aspects of growth and development that are measured include physical growth and development, Cognitive growth and development, Social growth and development. Child development focuses on the changes that take place in humans as they mature from birth to about age 17. There have been many theories on how we develop throughout childhood. Some of the most recognized include those developed by Sigmund Freud Erik Erikson and Lev vygotsky.

Role of Women in Child Development

As large as the role is that our mothers play the word 'Mother' is more powerful when used as a verb than as a noun. All women are not mother but all women are called to mother. To mother is to nurture to train to educate to rear all women are uniquely gifted to help others in their lives become more of who they truly are to encourage nature and mother them toward their true selves.

A mother can greatly influence child's growth and development, She has an extremely important role to play when it comes to boosting child's development Have a quick look at the important roles and responsibilities of mother in child development,

Mother the Strongest Role Model for the Child

A mother role in child's development, curial A 'mother is the first one to know and connect with her child from the day a child is born, his first inters child is with his mother. A child is his mother's reflection. His mother is his friend, he plays and spends quality time with her mother is strongest role model he looks up to and wants to be like her when he grows up A mother must create

A proper environment for the child to play learn and grow. As a parent the mother should set reasonable expectations from here children.

Role of Mother in Child's Behavioural Development

A child's future depends on the guidance and training of a mother studies have proven that an attachment between a mother and baby helps build an emotional bond such an attachment is imperative to building confidence the child Lack of this attachment leads to depression. Aggression anxiety in the child A mother child bond is key to emotional development . Research says that children who have an insecure attachment with their mothers are prone to developing behavioral problems later in their life.

Mothers Helps Child for Family Bonding

A mother helps child learn about the importance of family as she is the back bone of the family and holds everyone together . Have family meals together and en courage your child to spend time with family members.

Mothers Giving Proper Environment for Right Development of Child

The environment in which a child is brought up is of primary importance in a child's life. A suitable environment supports the proper development of the child. Hence it is necessary to have a comfortable environment for the child children are basically temperamental and hence their preference of environment also differ o ne child may prefer an active environment while another may prefer a peaceful and calm environment . Therefore, a mother has to understand her child's mindset and create an environment which they don't find boring distressing. When children are in their infant stage some may act difficult and react in a negative manner to it's environment but a mother has to prepare herself well to deal with such situations.

Teaching Trust and Security

This Two very important life skills that child will learn from mother. As a Mother she has the onus of teaching her child about the importance of being able to trust and be trustworthy. If child can trust you he will be confident and emotionally secure. When child needs her and always make sure support him and encourage him to do better. Your encouragement will show your child their your love for him is a constant and it make him more secure.

Mothers as an Educator

A mothers are more likely to engage her child I various learning activities from singing a rhyme out loud to solving a puzzle than the father. This is because as we said earlier, mothers are better at communication. They are also good at being playful. They are also very good at teaching children soft skills. As mother you need to interact with your child as much as you can and help them learn initially and help them be organized when they are more independent.

Mother as a Disciplinarian

A mother has to inculcate as sense of responsibility in the child she is the one who make him earn the first lesson to his life. She is the one who makes her child understand what is being said child learns to follow her instructions smoothly. She gives him toilet training and teaches him how to express his needs she makes him mentally strong to face the outer world when he first leavers home to join his school A mother has to maintain a balance between 'being strict' and 'pampering' the child.

Positive Altitude

Sure life is tough but how you handle your problems can teach your child about the importance of positive attitude. Mothers response towards various problems whether small or big will show her child that having a positive attitude can help overcome many difficulties Be positive as teach your child always to think positive Encourage child to learn from his mistakes and is never give up.

Hard Work

Mother hear work do for child's development and education is the biggest example in front of him child may feel that working hard is something that males you tired at the and of the day. But remind him of the immense pleasure and satisfaction it gives you to ensure your child's welding.

Many of the above roles can be taken up by mother women are genetically word to be better at these than men so mother are most important person in child's life now.

Conclusion

A mothers should be sensitive, understanding and use proper child rearing methods for child's physical, mental and intellectual development. Her emotional intimacy with the child will help to respond better to the cues of the child who has a problem. thus we have observed that mother and child's relationship is a special bond as compared to the child's relationship with others in the family and it has been accepted since ages Though a women whether She is working or a homemaker she should acknowledge her role in bringing up her child and making him or her a good and intelligent human being.
